Quarterly Report

The quarterly report reviews the performance of the renewable energy division. Revenue grew 18 percent year over year, driven by solar installations in Southeast Asia and new offshore wind contracts in Europe. Operating margins narrowed slightly because of higher component costs and logistics delays. Management expects supply chain pressure to ease in the second half and plans to expand battery storage capacity. The quarterly report reviews the performance of the renewable energy division. Revenue grew 18 percent year over year, driven by solar installations in Southeast Asia and new offshore wind contracts in Europe. Operating margins narrowed slightly because of higher component costs and logistics delays. Management expects supply chain pressure to ease in the second half and plans to expand battery storage capacity. The quarterly report reviews the performance of the renewable energy division. Revenue grew 18 percent year over year, driven by solar installations in Southeast Asia and new offshore wind contracts in Europe. Operating margins narrowed slightly because of higher component costs and logistics delays. Management expects supply chain pressure to ease in the second half and plans to expand battery storage capacity.